

1. I'll proudly get my bachelor degree from University of Delaware, the same school where the new US president attended, which will always encourage me to get perfect performance in future.
2. While experiencing a bad health condition which made me rest at home for almost a year, I changed my major turning to business school and did a great job improving my GPA in my Junior and Senior year, overcoming life difficulties and all the way to my career goal.
3. I had one year of work experience in Wuhan ZhiMingDaoYuan trading Inc and successfully solved labor disputes with my consistent improving negotiation skill.
4. I like US movies, they are my friends and teachers when I first landed in the US from where I practiced my oral English skills.
5. I earned the Dean's List Award in University of Delaware, a strong power that helped build my confidence after my illness in the midst of my university career.
6. I believe in globalization, honing my vision to be a globalist in future career development.
7. I like animals, having dogs at home and treating them like my family members.
8. I'm a co-founder of a startup company in China and have already raised 1.5 million RMB for it.
9. I decide to be an all-life entrepreneur for achieving business success, regardless of any potential failures.
10. My motto is "Never take no from answer", even at a time, I nearly lost my hope of life when I left school during university.
11. Tim Cook is my role model, this is part of the reason why I apply to Fuqua, dreaming of becoming a master of supply chain management like him.
12. I start a day at 7 am and go to bed around 11 pm, this is a habit that I'm still keeping after coming back from illness.
13. Even though my major is operation management, I also learned programming skills like Python, dealing with enormous data processing tasks in marketing research projects.
14. I'm patient with people, believe that most misunderstandings are from impatient actions, good negotiation skills makes businesswoman more professional.
15. Friends call me little sun because I always smile to life and put on a happy face.
16. Even though I'm a girl, I'm good at fixing car and house problems by myself, what a useful living skill in the United States, right?
17. I like American football, Go Blue Hens!
18. I donated thousands of masks in early 2020, hoping the world can get back to wonderful peace soon.
19. In my spare time, I like reading the Wall Street Journal and projecting my business models by data analysis.
20. My short term goal in the next 5 years is to make my first one million dollars with my startup company after master program.